Chapter 1 by Christian Maya

It was on Halloween that Jason heard a loud scream downstairs in his house. He went downstairs to go see what it was? So then he walked into the kitchen and he saw blood on the wall and all over the floor! He got very scared, and he just wanted to see what the blood was coming from. He started walking towards the blood, then he looked around the corner and all of a sudden a girl just popped up and screamed! It turned out it was just his older sister... But then, they both heard another scream and some glass break!!!!!!!!!!!!

Then Jason thought it was his sister just trying to scare him, and she said no it wasn't. So they both started walking towards where they heard the scream, and there was glass all over the floor. There was nothing around there that could've done it? So they both got very scared. Then all of a sudden a shadow came and they looked around but there was nobody there. They got really frightened because Jason and his friends were the only ones there or so they thought. They so scared that they split up to see if anything was wrong about the house. Then Jason saw a body on the floor, and it was one of his friends! It was his friend Anthony. He was scared to death..! He didn't know what to do? He was so nervous that he went to go grab a knife out of the kitchen, and because he was mad that his friend had died. So he was like running all around his house looking to see who it was that killed his friend. And he was going up the stairs then his sister just popped up out of no where, he panicked because he was so scared! He didn't know who it was at first because it was dark and he couldn't see. He had accidentally stabbed her and he started crying! But the all of a sudden he just woke up, and turned out it was all just a dream.....
